Mrs. Yang read Father's speech titled "All things as Public Beings," given on June 4, 1970.

In the speech, Father talked about the heavenly principle that those who live for the whole are good, become central figures of it, and prosper. He emphasized the importance of dealing with all things in a public form because they are public beings. He said the owner of sunlight is God and asked if anyone had paid for it, which was made not for an individual but for the whole. He also said we must understand all things want to be treated in such a public way, and the more public life one leads, the better they are considered with that standard.

In the video clip, she read the whole speech and Father listened silently without making any comments.
